

ACKNOWLEDGEMENT

At the very outset I express my deep sense of gratitude to my supervisor Dr Niraker Mallick, Department of sociology, Assam University, Silchar. Without his constant encouragement, valuable guidance and help at every stage the work would not have been completed.

I express my propound gratitude to Professor B. K. Behera, Head, Department of Sociology, Assam University, for his valuable suggestions and necessary help. I thank all faculty members of Department of sociology, Assam University for their valuable suggestions. I also express my gratitude to Mr. Ajay Roy, stenographer, Department of Sociology, for his necessary help.

Sri Arun Kumar Das, retired teacher, has helped me by providing data on history of Patni community without which my work could not be finished.

Sri Nihar Ranjan Das, Secretary, Barak Valley Patni Parishad and other members of the same organization have helped me a lot in field. I convey my heartiest thanks to all of them. Above all, I will remain ever grateful to my family members and relatives for their moral support, encouragement and sacrifice that has made me to accomplish my task of writing.
