

ACKNOWLEDGEMENT

Education is a pursuit of life long process and being in the field is a golden opportunity for anyone. The objective of it is achieving best knowledge when we are at the high stage of learning. As a young scholar I am glad to have this achievement under the supervision of Dr. Tenepalli Hari and Co-Supervision of Prof. G.V.C. Naidu. Both of my supervisors have insightfully got through the thesis and gave commendable correction, suggestion and other necessary advice to make the work a more perfection. I shall always cherish of their tireless energy and deep knowledge incorporated in it. With which I extend my warm gratitude and wish them to continue a Samaritan support to the upcoming young scholars too.

I also take this opportunity to extent my gratitude to all the teachers of the Department of Political Science, particularly Head of Department Prof. Joyati Bhattacharya, VC I/C Prof. RR Dharmala, PVC Prof. Debasish Battacherjee, Dr. Bijen Meetei, Dr. Moses Kharbithai, Dr. Tapan Das, Dr. Harsha, Mr. Kanaka, Dr. Debotosh and Dr. Mohan Baruah for their support in the process of writing this thesis. It is sure that through their cooperation that I had a great time in the department and do my work confidently. Nonetheless I would also extent my thanks to all the office staffs of the department for availing me their cooperation.

Deep appreciation and acknowledgement to experts who has in some way shared and help me in course of my research and namely with Prof. Sudharshan Seneviratne, High Commissioner of Sri Lanka to India; Prof. Nagaraj, PVC Assam University; Mari Oye, an economist in International Growth Centre Myanmar; Kyaw Yin Hlaing, Program Director for Myanmar Peace Center; Myoe Myint, Executive Director in MyanAmer Energy; Khin Maung Nyo, Chairman, Myanmar Economic Association; Prof. Tridib Chachraborti, Jadavpur University; Tin Maung Maung Than, Senior Research Fellow in ISEAS Singapore and Moe Thuzar, ISEAS Fellow, for extending their valuable time to enlighten me on various areas of the Indo-Myanmar relations and without them would have faced hurdle for me to complete this work.

Without ignoring the place where I acquired the data for the completion of this research work, I also extend my thanks to the ISEAS Library Singapore; Central Library of Assam University; Central Library of Jawaharlal Nehru University; IDSA; Sapru House Delhi; Nehru Memorial Library Delhi; Exim Bank Library Delhi; Central Library of NEHU Shillong; Central Library of VCU Tirupati; World Bank Library Delhi; United Nations Information Centre (UNIC) Delhi; North Eastern Social Research Centre Guwahati; North Eastern Council Library Shillong; Rajiv Gandhi University Itanagar; Central Library of Guwahati University; Assam Archives Dispur and others which I could not remember but have helped me in equal form to complete my work.

My gratitude is also equally extended to all my friends Poukindin Malangmei, Dr. Soihem Dangmei, Lungaibuan Gangmei, Gainaimei Kamei, Gungapou Panmei, Raguibou, Guichamlung Daimai, Dinjangam, Kingaule, Mordicai Kamei, Isaulang Riame and many more who are equally indebted. It is through their friendship and open discussion that my idea has been expanded on the subject. I would proudly say that some of their profound ideas have been shared in different forms during the course of writing this thesis.

Lastly but not the least, I extend my warm gratitude to all my family members for morally and physically supportive all throughout my academic life. My parents always stood by me to reach this far and cannot oversee their love and affection. During the course, I encountered the demise of my brother Lt. Gongsinlung but shortly together with him was worth millions to me. My young sister Guilienei and brother Kahaolung are also very supportive to me. Nonetheless, my wife is pillar to me as she was looking after everything that may limit me. Again my newly born baby M. Michiko is an endless joy to me. Without all of them I would have face a gloomy and solitary life. Finally, with sincerity I solemnly declare that the thesis is purely my work and owe full responsibility of inadvertent mistakes and unintended errors that may have found in this work.
