ACKNOWLEDGEMENT

At the very outset, I would like to express my deepest gratitude to my guide, Dr. Silajit Guha, Assistant Professor, department of Mass Communication, Assam University, Silchar for his continuous guidance and supervision. Right from the beginning of the study, he showed tremendous patience and perseverance and helped me complete the study.

I would also like to thank Prof. GP Pandey, Head, Department of Mass Communication, Assam University and all other teachers of the department of Mass Communication for their cooperation all through the tenure of the study.

My parents, Dr. Tanmay Bhattacharjee and Mrs. Ranjita Bhattacharjee, were my greatest source of inspiration and their continuous encouragement gave me the necessary motivation to carry on with the research work. My sister Dr. Srijani Bhattacharjee, brother in law Dr. Santanu Dey and little niece Sudakshina always believed that I could complete this work despite all odds and I must take this opportunity to thank them.

I will ever remain indebted to employer Delhi Metro Rail Corporation Limited, my Head of the department, Mr. Anuj Dayal and all my colleagues for supporting me during the study. I was liberally given leaves for attending my exams and presentations and valuable inputs about the study were also given by them.

I would also thank my friends Mr. Amit Kumar Das, Mr. Sandipan Suklabaidya, Mr. Bidyut Nath and Mr. Himangshu Sarmah for providing me with important inputs about the current trends in new media usage in the Indian public relations industry.

A word of gratitude must also go to my father-in-law Mr. Sushil Chakraborty, my brother-in-law, Mr. Venkateshwar Chakraborty and my friends Mr. Uttam Deb and Mr. Samrat Paul for providing me with all the logistical support required in Silchar.

Last but not the least, I would thank my wife, Mrs. Nitu Bhattacharjee and little son, Nirjhar for being my greatest pillars of strength. While working on the research, I could not discharge many of my household responsibilities but they kept supporting me uncomplainingly and extended every possible hand of cooperation.
