ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

The year 2014 was important in the media calendar of Bangladesh. It marked the Jubilee celebrations of the electronic media – Diamond Jubilee of Radio Bangladesh and Golden Jubilee of Bangladesh Television (BTV) while I undertook the doctoral research work for the Ph.D. degree in Mass Communication.

First and above all, I praise Allah, the almighty for providing me this opportunity and granting me the capability to proceed successfully. Doctoral study in Mass Communication was my dream since I completed Masters in Mass Communication and Journalism in 1975 from the University of Dhaka, Bangladesh. The Ph.D. thesis is the culmination of a life-long interest in Mass Communication and Journalism and has turned into as much a labour of love as a scientific study of mine.

I take this opportunity to place on record a deep sense of gratitude and highest respect to my Research Guide Professor Dr. Gyan Prakash Pandey, Head and Dean, Department of Mass Communication and Abanindranath Tagore School of Creative Arts and Communication Studies respectively of Assam University, Silchar, under whose painstaking guidance and supervision, I have carried out this doctoral research work.

I owe a debt of gratitude to my former Supervisor and Research Guide Professor Dr. K.V. Nagaraj, Pro Vice Chancellor and Head, Department of Mass Communication, Assam University, Silchar whose keen professional interest in my work, with exciting standard of research has been of great avail to me both in my training as a researcher and in shaping this thesis.

Towering above all, their affectionate treatment, discerning comments and constructive suggestions at every stage of the work immensely helped me to complete the thesis work successfully while their untiring efforts brought the dream into a reality.

I find short of vocabulary to express my utmost gratitude to Professor Abdul Mannan, MP, Emeritus Professor Dr. A. Jabbar, Professor Abdur Razzaque, Principal Allama Shaykh Manzur Ahmad, Moulana Md. Tofazzal Hossain Bhuiyan, for extending necessary help and assistance in the collection of data and for their continued blessings.

A friend and counsellor Professor Dr. A.A.M.S. Arefin Siddique, Vice-Chancellor, University of Dhaka, encouraged me in this venture, provided the intellectual energy, and gave unstinted help during field surveys and made a number of useful suggestions, for which I wish to express my appreciation. The cooperation extended to me by Professor Dr. M. Zahangir Kabir, Head, Department of Journalism and Media Studies, Manarat International University (MIU), Professor Dr. M. Golam Rahman, Chief Information Commissioner, Bangladesh, Mr. Mirza Tarequl Qader, Executive Director, BIJEM, Mr. Dewan Sayeedul Hassan, BTV and Radio News

Presenter and Joint Secretary to the Government of Bangladesh and high officials of BTV are gratefully acknowledged.

There are several institutions, individuals, relatives, friends and well-wishers, whose services have been of a great help in the preparation of this doctoral dissertation. I deem it pleasure and academic duty to thank them all. Warm appreciation goes to the respondents and interviewees who gladly provided the data for my research work. Their enthusiasm, eagerness and willingness to fill up the questionnaires, facilitated the field work to a great extent.

I must also express my deep appreciation of the kindness and courtesy extended to me by Professor Dr. Riaz Mahmood, Dr. Manzoor Ahmed Malik and Dr. Promoda Kumar. They not only made me feel at home during my stay in Indian University, but also provided rich intellectual stimulus through their broad humanitarian outlook. They were source of pleasure and cooperation in need and deed.

I wish to record my gratitude to the Government of the People's Republic of Bangladesh for selecting me to pursue my Ph.D programme and to the Government of India for providing me necessary help and assistance under Indo-Bangladesh Exchange Protocol which supported my studies at the Assam Central University. I am especially grateful to Professor Dr. Dilip Chandra Nath, Vice-Chancellor, Assam University, Professor Dr. Somnath Dasgupta, Professor Dr. Tapodhir Bhattacharjee and all teachers of the Department of Mass Communication whose efforts have produced an environment that encourages my Ph.D research of this sort.

I would like to express my sincere gratitude to Professor Dr. M. Amirul Islam, Vice-Chancellor of Bangladesh Agricultural University including authorities for enabling me to pursue the Ph.D programme by granting the necessary study leave.

For the ancestors who paved the way before me upon whose shoulder I stand. I dedicate this thesis to my father and mother Professor Dr. Md. Rustam Ali Diwan of the University of Dhaka and Begum Shahida Diwan respectively who had been a source of inspiration and role model to me left this world in 1999 for their heavenly abode. We dreamt together but today when this dream turns into reality, I cannot share the joy and happiness with them in flesh. But I would like to mention that I have a feeling that I share with them in spirit. I am very sure that this success is only because of their ritual prayer and love they bestow upon me.

And finally, I should like to add a word of appreciation to my wife Dr. Ferdous Badrunnahar Rashid as well as my affectionate and loving son A.H.M. Yameen Ali Diwan and daughter F.A.U. Aiman Rashid Oishee who while I worked was never unduly demanding on my time.
