The successful completion of this doctoral research work gives me the opportunity to express my deep sense of gratitude to those exceptional persons whose contributory efforts and blessings helped me to materialize my dream coming into reality. A dream of doing Ph.D was initially brought to my vision by my father in the year 2007 when I completed my M.S.W course. It took one and a half year after the master to prepare myself mentally to undergo research work. Ultimately the day came when the foundation stone of my father's dream was laid in 2009 by taking admission in Ph.D under the supervision of Dr. Subhabrata Dutta, HOD, Social Work.

I am deeply indebted to my research guide Dr. S. Dutta for having borne the onerous responsibility of supervising my research work. Indeed, without his constant guidance and precious encouragement, this work would not have been possible. The vast experience and deep insight into social research of Dr. Dutta gave birth of a new area for the present study which was widely appreciated by both GOs and NGOs. His dynamic attitude made the research journey an interesting one. His enlightened criticisms and openness made me confident to delve deep into the topic. My deep regards for him.

It is my privilege to extend my sincere gratitude to Prof. Gopalji Mishra, Dean School of Social Sciences whose positive attitude and faith in me always boosted me to go ahead. He stood firmly for me as and when required and insisted upon me for my success. I am indebted to him for his kind generosity.

I express my thanks to other faculty members of my department, Social Work for their valuable suggestions and guidance as and when required for the purpose.

I am very much indebted to my parents especially my father who was very much keen in shaping my student life. His motivation, prying look has put me across the research work. He made me faithful to one's promises and finally his dreams through me coming into reality. My words of indebtedness are extended to my younger brother for his kind cooperation and help in operating computer and take advantage of internet facilities. Mention must be made here for my elder brother, sister-in-law for all sorts of inspiration given to me. Another person who needs mention worthy is my 'Pishamoni'. His invaluable advices, suggestions and time to time enquires about the developments added much enthusiasm in my research work.

It is universally known to everybody that the married life of a couple stands on mutual respect and reciprocal understanding and I have realized this unique thinking during last three and a half years of my research study. I have no words of thanks for my kind hearted husband who was constantly inspiring me to achieve the goal. Today, I owe my indebtedness to him for his magnanimity which had exempted me to do many household works. At the same time, I owe my sincere gratitude to my in-laws for providing me ample opportunities to carry out strenuous journey.

I would also like to place on record my sincere thanks to one very famous lady of Nazira namely "Romola Baideo" for her benevolent attitude to needy people. In one fine morning, I reached Nazira a small town in the district of Sibsagar for my pilot survey. I was searching for a hotel to stay. Unfortunately, I could not get a suitable hotel to stay. By the grace of God, I met Romola Baideo who took me to her house and gave me shelter, food for five days. I am indebted to the entire family for their hospitality and kind cooperation which not only helped me to carry out my work, but opened a new vista in my life.

I must acknowledge with gratitude for the precious part played by the Government functionaries of seven districts and eight Non-Government functionaries who spared generously their invaluable time and energy to provide me positive and updated information for the purpose of my research study.

Above all, I express my heartfelt thanks to the respected respondents without whose productive responses the subject matter of GO-NGO Partnership would not have been highlighted for the masses.

At last, I would like to thank those people who had very generously helped me in many ways during conducting the research work.
